GARRETT TOWNSHIP

GARRITY TOWNSHIP occupies the northwest corner of Douglas county. It received its name from the Garrity family and prominent settlers of the neighborhood. It was the institution of the county in twelve precincts made on the east by the Oklahoma river, from the same name. The Oklahoma river is here, in the middle of the township, and three hundred miles in length, and farther down becomes a beautiful river. It is the ancient Kaskaskia, and its mouth, in Randolph county, was the scene of the earliest settlements by the French in the Missouri valley.

The town of Atwood was founded in 1875 by James Olsen, E. C. Mullen, John Towner, Hans Petersen, and Jack DeWitt. James DeWitt, William Howe, Dr. D. A. Mosker, and William Feltgen, "the four big boys" of Atwood, were the first to build houses in the town. The first schools were erected. E. C. Mullen had previously been Orono Judge. The timber which borders the river and its tributaries crosses a massive sandstone ridge. The ridge runs from east to west, south of the center, and the timberland adjoins to the west. The timber was cut and the lumber was taken to Atwood for shipment. The lumber was used in the construction of a subscription of thirteen thousand dollars to the Atwood and Towner Lumber Company. TUSCOLA TOWNSHIP

THE township which contains the county seat was one of the latest settlements from the fact that its territory is composed almost entirely of prairie. Its present state of improvement is largely due to the railroad system. The Illinois Central Railroad extends through it in direction nearly north and south and it is intersected at Tuscola by the Indiana and Illinois Central.

The early settlers were the Hacketts, Owen J. Jones, Joseph W. Smith, and in the northern part G. P. Plimney, B. F. Jones, and B. C. Nelson. William Erian is the oldest settler in the township, and for several years remained the only inhabitant. The township contains fine farming land, and ranks among the wealthiest and best improved of the county. The township took stock in the Indiana and Illinois Central Railroad to the amount of twenty thousand dollars.

LAST the city of Tuscola was laid out, and predictions were freely made by knowing ones that it would one day be the center of one of the proposed new county of Douglas, all of which, singularly enough, was verified. A. J. Smith, one of the men who figured prominently in the early history of the town, says: "The growth of the town has been considerably retarded by the destructive fires, but now we are on our feet again, and the future of the town is bright. The public school building, an imposing structure three stories in height with a fine front porch, is now under construction. It is provided with a large bell and a town clock, and has roomed two hundred and thirty to four hundred children. The contract price was originally $10,000, but the cost was nearer forty thousand. The district judge bonds to the amount of twenty thousand dollars to meet the cost of construction. These were made by the citizens of the town, and the town has no debt. The building is a fine half-cent. The court-house is a neat and hand-some structure, and a fine row of brick buildings has been recently erected containing a hand-one half cent.

Two new papers are published in Tucson, the Tucson Gazette and the Saturday Journal. The first is the successor of the Pacific, which was started on the 29th of August, 1872, in the interest of the Independent Republican party. F. C. Smith, D. O. Lester bought the office on the 26th of February, 1873, changing the name to the Tucson Gazette. In April, 1873, Lester received an appointment in the Pension Department at Washington, leaving the Gazette in charge of Theodore Fisher, the present editor. The Saturday Journal, which Mr. Lindsay is editor, is a paper of large circulation, and devoted to the interests of the republican party.

At the fire which occurred on the night of March 15th, 1875, some forty-nine buildings were burnt, including Commercial Block, the finest rooming house in city, which occupied the site of the present Opera Block named above. The other buildings were of wood, but many of these contained large quantities of valuable merchandise. The loss by this fire was probably not far from one hundred and fifty thousand dollars. The Baptists, Presbyterians, Methodists and Christians have churches, no have also the colored Methodist

CAMARGO TOWNSHIP

Camarero is the oldest settled township of Douglas county. The town-ship derives its name from the town, and this is taken from that of the city of Camarero, in Mexico, and was suggested by Col. J. B. McCown, long and favorably known to old residents, and who served honorably during the war between that country and the United States.

The original town of Camarero was laid out in November, 1872, and was then called New Salem. Most addition was made, made and the town located within the town, some distance west of the main town and the population began to grow. The town of New Albany, Indiana, the present name, was incorporated in 1808. It has been the honor of being the oldest town in the county, and the first county court was held here under "dispensation," preceding the selection of the county seat. The town population was about eight hundred, lying on the east bank of the Indiana canal. The county of Indiana was divided into four Central Regions. Some of the leading men of the county in business and politics were former residents of the village. The Methodist and Baptist

Coming west per rail, from the village of Cuneo, the second half of the mile of the track, after passing the railroad bridge, a fine house was built in the county. It is on the land, Sec. 16, T. 9, R. 6, E. 1. It was built in 1829, by John A. Richman, the father of John Richman, who lived in the house known as "Lark's Luck". Mr. John A. Richman of West-View, now came here from Vermilion county in that year, and settled. "The Luck" became a nursery for made a hand at the raising. This house was for a long time the old quarters for elections, (Coles county of course) and military musters. The crew was in of friendly Indians, numbering about one hundred, camped at "Huen"—which was a trading point for them, and a store was kept by Andrew Vesary, a Frenchman—the next years of which were the last of Major A. Moore, the month of Frisco Fork, in Sept. 28, 15, to

But Harrison County, Kentucky, with its favorable climate and excellent soil, was a better place for the family. The father, who had been a cooper and millwright upon the trip to the West, found work in the area. At the time, in Kentucky, Irish and German Catholics were welcome. Mr. Gail wrote, "The Irish community added to the town of Elbert was a considerable one. I don't think that the other town was about to enter later, and consequently I went to a school for a while. The school was conducted by a priest, and I attended school from six to fifteen months. They all wanted a white man if he could hunt. Fortunately for my sake, he was a poor hunter and so saved my skin. Mr. Gail had also entered the first land in the county—the N. W. 1/4, 36—the patent being signed by Andrew Jackson. Henry Clay was

John Hammett, the father of W. S. & J. R. Hammett, arrived in November 1878, and resided on Sep. 14, 1878. They did their milling at Georgetown and Logansport, Indiana, at the mouth of the big Vermillion, and made frequent trips to Chicago by wagon. Returning home in 1880, Martin River Judge John J. Martin, Dr. McKinnon, and the Martins were among the subscribers.

In these veins, without pain, a drink of scotch could not be had between the Embarrasse and the little Vermilion, for upon the former not a sign of inhabitants could be seen—indeed it was generally supposed at that time that the prairies could not be settled up, the proximity of timber seeming to offer the kind of restriction.

kind of protection.

Mr. James R. Hammet, had a great deal to do with the interests of the Indiana & Illinois Central Railroad, and contributed much of his time and money to the furtherance of the interests, in preparing the minds of the people for a favorable view of the enterprise. The railroad was, at this time, seven years of preparation, finally built through the town-ship in 1872, and is rapidly winning a way to the importance claimed for it by its friends.

NEWMAN TOWNSHIP

THE City of Newman was laid out contemporarily with Tuscola, and the man was given it in honor of R. Newman, Esq., one of the original proprietors. Among the early settlers may be mentioned Enosh Howell, who was one of the Associate Judges of Coles County; and the Winklers, who sold three land to the Hopkins; James, Cornelius, Robert, and William Hopkins were leading men of the day. Robert Hopkins was one of the Judges of Coles County at the time the separation of Douglas from Coles occurred, and was re-elected to it

The township is nearly all prairie. Toward the north the country rises to a high, rounded ridge, known as the "Ridge." Here James M. Goolley and his brother, Mr. William W. Young, deceased; and the Reverend Jonathan Goolley were the first settlers. Isaac Skinner, of Newman, is one of the oldest residents, and another old inhabitant is William Sauts. The Indian and Illinois Centra-

Killdeer traverses the southern part, and the township took stock in the road to the amount of twelve thousand dollars. The township contains some fine farms, among which is that of Mr. T. M. Culbertson, lying north and west of Newman, of over two thousand acres, the largest contiguous body of land in the eastern end of Douglas County. The view from the rolling prairie known as the "Kildee," in the upper part of the township, is more extensive than any which may be obtained from any other part of the County.

A man named Co. Mattison, some time previous to 1830, or about that date settled in this township. He dealt with him twelve or fifteen slaves. He soon learned they would be free should they remain a year, and so proposed to return with them to Kentucky. But he reckoned without his host. A party of determined Abolitionists, as Mattison was pleased to term them, put it to a vote whether he should be allowed to take them with him. The vote was returned to slavery, and Mattison was obliged to leave them in the hands of his owner. Some acquainted Mattison in Kentucky, John M. Wilson, a Unitarian minister, returned to go either to Erie, or Kentucky, and remain in this day in Douglas County. In the trial which grew out of the case, Abraham Lincoln and O. S. Ficklin were employed as opposing counsel.

SARGENT TOWNSHIP.

SARGENT township takes its name for Snowdon Sargent, one of the old settlers of this part of Douglas County. There is no trading point of any importance in the township, because being divided between the towns of Snowdon and Oakland, in Cook County. The only post office is Brushy Fork, more familiarly known in the neighborhood as "Nip-and-Tuck." Among the old settlers are Snowdon Sargent, Andrew Gwinn, Samuel Allison, William C. Murphy, the Gendens, J. W. Burge, and William Hancock, and the families rich prairie, and was consequently settled up later than the townships containing fields. It is intersected by the Illinois Central Railroad and the Illinois and Midland Railway, the crossing being at the city of Arrol.

The first County Judge of Douglas County was James F. Wing, who is living in the city of Arcadia and after the township organization their first Supervisor was Asa T. Whitmore, Esq.

The original copy of Archy was laid off by the Illinois Central, built upon its own land in November, 1871, and was for many years called "Kass," followed by the addition of Dr. F. B. Mcerry and John McAnn, and others. There have been some sixteen additions made to the city, and it now covers about the area of a section of land. It is a formidable rival of Troy.

The creation of roads built the Paris and Detroit Railroad by sheer force of numerical management, and the township contracted a debt by a vote of the people to this road of one hundred thousand dollars, and it is questionable as to whether it will ever have to be paid, the legality of the election being in

The city of Arcola has two newspapers, the "Record" and "Democrat". The Toledo and St. Louis Railroad, as yet only graded, runs in a South-westerly direction from this city. There was quite a struggle as to whether this road should connect with this city or Tascosa, and citizens of both places had a meeting at Starbuck in October, 1871, in the interest of their respective localities, and Arcola won. This road will doubtless be finished at an early

The first house, probably, built in the township was the D. Shaw house, between Arcadia and the west timber.

The city has several handsome brick blocks and a fine public mall. First South Street has now, daily, all the life and business of such large cities. It has a Mayor and Council, and has fairly started on its race with rival cities.

Several handsome churches offer comfortable facilities to the members of the leading denominations.

BOURBON TOWNSHIP

is intersected by the Okaw River, which receives Lake Fork at about its

Among the first settlers to arrive were George Bennett and his sons Samuel and Lucus. The first others were a Dr. Wilson and Nelson Shaw and Father M. J. O'Connell. There was a road leader in Cove County, and he directed a road from the Saluda River to six miles south of the Springfield road. In this region, they settled James Bree, Isaac Grizzle, I. M. and Samuel B. Logan, and William and Allen Campbell, Dr. J. H. Apperson, Mahon Jones and others. The Dechant sons are still living in the township, as well as Nelson Shaw. Mr. Allen Campbell, the largest landholder in the County, is even at this day

The first Supervisor who represented this township was Lemuel Chandler brother of the first County Clerk. He had a great deal to do with the purchase of land for the township.

The original village of Bourbon, situated on section 14, township 15, range 7, was laid out by Mabel Jones in October, 1873, and is the third town in the county in priority.

An addition was made in the following January by E. J. Ellery. Some years ago this was a thriving village, containing the trade of several adjacent sections of the county.

Tasada and Arado being just projected, and their influence beginning to be felt, or, rather the influence of the Alameda Cant. at Kulestak, which was a the village four miles to the east, the town of Bourdeaux, holding that the game-shunts were only removed to the railroad, but even took their buildings along with them, came to the conclusion that the game-shunts were not removed.

The town of Arthur, on section '40, 15, 7, was laid off by the Paris and Desautel Railroad, and made a station on the line of the Warren and Murphy's. The first business-chance was built by James Sneyd. It has a saw-mill, stores and elevators. Its importance as a shipping point is being constantly acknowledged for its extensive trade. Its record shows an increase of 1,275 persons in the last year.

There was a well-governed Falmouth on the North part of section 36, township 15, range 7, T and R of H. Russell in November 1815.

A little South of it, on the East M. Railway, a station has been called Chatterbox. The town of Bates and Timbuctoo, about 1828, constituted a large and flourishing business at Falmouth, but after the F. & M. Railroad was built removed to Grand and left Falmouth to its fate. Mr. Bates is now a large lumberman with a sawmill and millinery of 14 acres of land.

The name of this township was derived from Bourbon County, Kentucky, which was represented by several of the original settlers.

Township 15 North
Range 10 East of 3d Principal Meridian

This is a historical cadastral map of a portion of the Oregon Territory, likely from the mid-19th century. The map displays numerous rectangular land parcels, each labeled with the owner's name and the number of acres. Owners include prominent figures like J.W. Murphy, W.F. Murphy, H.F. Coffey, and S.J. Wilson. Other notable owners are J.H. Brown, J.C. Bennett, and J.M. Gwynn. The map also shows a network of roads or trails, some labeled with numbers like 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36. A winding river or stream is depicted flowing through the lower half of the map. The overall layout suggests a systematic surveying process, possibly related to the Homestead Act or similar land distribution policies of the era.

Dr. Bassett died of French and English descent. He was born at Montpelier, Vermont, on the second of May, 1813. His father removed to Williston, in Chittenden County, Vermont, when the son was a boy. He, the son, lived in his father's home until the family without support, and if he had remained in his father's home, working for his support, he would have been a clerk, and his schooling as could be seen at any time in the records of his father. When thirteen, his mother bought a small farm at Shelburne, Rutland County, Vermont, and he went home to assist her in the management. Here he had

GEOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES OF CITIZENS OF DOUGLAS COUNTY, IOWA.

He attended the Cashton Seminary, walking four miles each day to and from school. He was a member of the Baptist Church. He was called to study the father's profession, that of a physician. The spring he was married he went to Boston, Mass., and secured a position in a private hospital. He is of moderate height, fair complexion, and smiling in his moral deportment. After a short stay of two years, he returned to Portland, and continued the study of medicine there, under the supervision of Dr. Joseph Perkins, President of the Medical College. In the summer of 1853, he was called to the office of a physician at Colburn, he went to Burlington, Vermont, and after taking another course of lectures there, graduated in June, 1854.

After his marriage, on the sixteenth of June, 1845, he had married Miss Fanny Findler, the daughter of Chapin Findler, of New-Lex County, New York. Fanny Vermon, after receiving his diploma, he spent the summer and fall of 1846 among the relatives of his wife in New-Lex County, New York, and in the fall of 1847 he spent some time with his wife's father, who had been a school teacher, in the town of New-Lex, New York. His brother had preceded him. This brother had lived at Fawcett then was founded, and through his influence Dr. Bassett came to this place. He made his school here a year with his friends in New York. The population of Tuxedo at the time of his arrival was less than twenty. His brother had bought the property and had spent at this station 12,000 dollars. His wife passed him 25,000 dollars. Dr. Bassett assisted him for a year. His wife passed him 25,000 dollars.

He then bought a house and led a Dr. R. B. Bantz on Park Street and established a practice as a physician, the first in the town. He was a lover, and his time increased with the growth of the town. At the beginning of the war of the R. B. Bantz he enlisted as first lieutenant in Company E, Seventy-ninth Regiment of Illinois Volunteers. In August, 1862, the regiment left Mazon for Kentucky. He had been but a short time in the service when his health failed. He was attacked with typhoid pneumonia and after a period of severe illness was discharged at Nashville, Tennessee, and home the twenty-eighth of December. He was confined to bed until the following April, 1863, when he regained his strength sufficiently to resume the duties of His health had not been good. In 1847 he found his strength inadequate for the duties of a large and lucrative practice, and he returned to Vermont. At that old home, Cushman, he was in practice for one year with his former preceptor, Dr. Perkins. From there he proceeded to Cantonville, Clinton County, New York, where he practiced for the three succeeding years. His health had improved, but in 1851 his health had again become partially impaired, he returned to Tinselti in April, 1851.

Dr. Russell has lived all from, all from in Illinois. For several years he has been connected with the Methodist Church. He has taken an interest in religious and political questions, and has been a member of the Methodist Association, and has always been attached to the Republican party. The injury to his health is mainly occasioned by his business life, the effects of which still remain. Dr. Russell is as highly esteemed for his qualities as a gentleman and a physician as he is a physician, in which respect he stands in the foremost rank of his profession.

ANDREW G. WALLACE

Mr. WALLACE traces his ancestry back to the Scotch family of that name. His grandfather, Robert Wallace, emigrated from Scotland to Ireland, and from there to America, settling in Pennsylvania near where the three states of Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania come together. He had five sons, three of whom moved away from their Pennsylvania home. One of the sons was William Wallace, the youngest child, who came to Harlan county, Kentucky, and from there removed to Davis county, Indiana, where Andrew G. Wallace was born, on the thirty-first of March, 1824. He was the second child by his father's second wife, whose maiden name was Yachti Winkler.

When two years old his father moved from Perry county to Vermilion county, Indiana, and there settled down as a farmer. After a residence here of about ten years, the family in 1845 or 1846 came to Giles county and located on Grayson Creek, just south of the line which now divides Douglas from Giles county. The country was then thinly settled both in Vermilion and Giles counties, where Mr. Wallace's boyhood was spent, but many advantages were afforded for obtaining anything like a good education. He was compelled to rely mainly on his own resolves. But his quick perceptive faculties and industrious enabled him to jock up a large amount of information, and thus fit himself for the duties of his after life. In 1841 the family moved north in what is now Douglas county, and kept the slyden known as "Wallace stand," west of the Hickory town, which was the first place he lived in. He was then about 18 years of age. He was then in his eighteenth year, and the charge of the family fell upon him, his older brother having previously left home. He remained on the homestead and continued to farm until 1851. On the twenty-second day of November, 1851 he married Harriet E. Bailey, a native of Ohio, whose family had come to Illinois in 1835. At this time his younger brother, John, was then grown upon the homestead, and he was then 21 years of age. His mother died in 1852.

In 1854 Mr. Wallace removed to Cameron and began business there as a cattle dealer. After a residence here of four years, he moved to Turley, then called Springville into existence, the fourth house, indeed, having been built by Mr.

Wallace himself. Here he kept a hotel for about two years. From the inception of the plan of forming a new county out of the north of Tones, Mr. Wallace was deeply interested in it, and he may be said to have been one of the prime movers in the project. The petition presented to the legislature during the session of 1858, in granting which the bill was passed, organizing the county, was drawn up by Mr. Wallace. He subsequently used all his influence to secure a favorable vote, on the question being submitted to the people, of Cedar county being a part of the new county. He was successful. He then moved to community. In the spring of 1954 he was elected Justice of the Peace at Tuscola, the first ever elected in the town. In 1959 he was elected first Circuit Clerk of the county. To this position he was re-elected in 1960, again in 1964, and again in 1968, thus serving four consecutive terms performing the duties of the office to his own credit and the satisfaction of the people. In June, 1929, he was appointed Master in Chancery, a position which he still holds. For the last twelve years Mr. Wallner has been extensively engaged in the money lending and real estate business. He possesses a complete set of blue-prints and has a ready facility for the transaction of business in that line.

Mr. Wallner was one of the founders of Tuscola and holders of the town

Mr. Wallace was one of the pioneers of musical and domestic life in the town. With one exception, it is his oldest son, Mr. H. Wallace, who was the first person in the town who could sing a religious song, the other inhabitants in some way being deficient in their musical requirements. Mr. Wallace and his wife, with Mr. Thomas Woolf, and his wife, organized the Methodist Church of June 18, 1856, of which he has since been a faithful and constant member, and for a long period class leader. To his exertions is largely due the building of the present church edifice. For twenty-five years in Mr. Wallace served the people.

various capacities—sufficient evidence of his popularity and the confidence reposed in him as an honest and faithful officer. He has lived to see children, all of whom are living. In his younger days he was a Whig. On the dissolution of that party he became a Republican, and has been so steadily to the present. He is the principal supporter of that party as he has been enthusiastic in its support. During the war he was active and liberal in the support of the Union cause, securing both time and money. He has watched the growth of Texas from its beginning. Few men have been more closely associated with the progress of the country, and few have proved better citizens.

through the war with Washington's forces. The other sided with the forces in opposition to it, so the brothers became antagonistic to one another and were sent off to battle. There was a total separation occurred between the two branches of the family. The last sales agent remains who sold his horses with those of the patriots, and who after the war was shipped off to be taken away.

GEORGE P. PHINNEY.

AMONG the old residents of Tusoda township is Mr. G. P. Phinney, at present a member of the County Board of Supervisors. He was born at Lexington, Massachusetts, the scene of the first Revolutionary struggle, on the twenty-eighth of January, 1825. His ancestors were of Irish descent. His grandfather first lived in Nova Scotia, but removing to Massachusetts became a resident of Barnstable, and afterward of Lexington. Mr. Phinney was next to the youngest of a family of children consisting of seven girls and three boys.

His early life was spent at Lexington. The Massachusetts common school system afforded him good opportunities of acquiring an education. His father was a farmer, and he was early initiated in the mysteries of agriculture. After leaving school he took charge of the farm in the absence of his father, who was for many years clerk of the court. In March, 1843, he married Catherine C. Richardson, a native of Woburn, Massachusetts, but at that time a resident of Connecticut.

Directly after this he emigrated to the West. He had previously visited Illinois (in 1852) in search of an appropriate location, remaining in the State six months. He left Massachusetts in the spring of 1853, and settled in Adams County, Illinois, buying a quarter section of land, sixteen miles from Quincy. After residence there of six years he removed to his present location in DeKalb County, arriving in the summer of 1859, on the day of the election for the county at which, resulted in favor of Tazewell. He bought a quarter section of land, and the same summer erected a house upon it. His family at that time consisted of a wife and three children. His first wife died in 1867, and in December, 1871, he is married the second time, to Jane Moon, a resident of Champaign County.

Mr. Plimney has always been a farmer. He now owns two hundred and forty acres of land in section two, township sixteen, range eight. He has been a quiet and industrious citizen, and at the same time has taken an active in-gent in public affairs. Though from birth was but little improved at the time of his rising up his residence in it, the period of its rapid growth and progress having been in the latest years preceding his arrival in 1870. To the political issues of the day, Mr. Plummer has always taken an intelligent and active part, and from the period of the formation of the Republican party has been attached to that organization. He voted for John C. Fremont, the first presidential candidate of the Republican party, and has since continued staunch in the support of Republican principles.

Mr. Huntley is a man who enjoys the confidence of the community. He is now serving his third term as member of the County Board of Supervisors, a position which his intelligence has enabled him to discharge in a manner creditable to himself and satisfactory to the people of the township.

HON. J. G. CANNON.

Hon. J. G. Cannon, the member of Congress representing the fourth district of Illinois, of which he has been elected, is a native of Pike county, Indiana. His father was a physician, a Whig in politics, and an abolitionist. Mr. Cannon received his early education at the Pike county Academy. At the age of fourteen the death of his father occurred, and he then began a law office at the residence of his mother, in the town of Ellettsburg. He also law in the circuit Court at Fort Harrison, Term. He then subsequently attended the University law school at Ann Arbor, Michigan, and returned to Ellettsburg in June, 1871.

He was elected State Attorney for the district in which Douglas county is embraced, and was re-elected in 1874. He was elected to congress in 1872 and re-elected in 1874. He was a member of the committee on Post Office and Post Roads, and also during the same session, of the Special Committee on

ON J. G. CANNON

Dr. Joseph G. Casson, the member of Congress representing the district of Illinois, of which Douglas county forms a part, is a native of Kentucky, Indiana. His father was a physician, a Whig in politics, and an ardent abolitionist. Mr. Casson received his early education at the Plattsburg Academy. At the age of fourteen the death of his father caused "poor" to become a boy of all kinds in a poor country at Annapolis, Indiana. He only attended the Union and Western, of Lern. He was academically educated at the University, Law, etc., and at the same time to the bar came to finish in June, 1849.

In 1849, he was elected State Attorney for the district in which Douglas county is embraced, and was re-elected in 1854. He was elected to Congress in 1872, and again in 1878. He was a member of the committee on Post Office and Post Roads during the second session of the 52nd and Alabama reconstructing committee.

B. E. Peters

They also met for the summer in a beautiful mountainous country, 20 miles from July 1872. His conversation with the old Virginia was full of the things and the people with which he had grown up. He was a student of Lawrence County, Ohio. The summer was a very pleasant one for some time, and had no new incidents, and he was not much interested in the country. He said he had seen of three or four miles from the river, he was then as old, all the time, he was then as old. He then he said he was then, Ohio, and he was then, attended the same.

of a considerable investment in grain and stock. He was originally a Wing policy, but on the dissolution of that party became a Republican, and, as an insurance agent, Mr. and Mrs. Briggs have had eleven children, eight living. The four oldest were born in Ohio. One, Franklin, was born in Champaign County, and the others in Douglas. The next to the oldest daughter, Alice, died on the second of February, 1913, at the age of fourteen. She returned to her school on Friday evening, was late in class, and died the next day before day. She was a girl of an interesting and lovely disposition, a general favorite among a large circle of friends and relatives, and her death was universally lamented.

Mr. and Mrs. Reese are both members of the Methodist Church, having been united with that organization in 1830, in Ohio. At the time of their coming to the county there was no organized church society in the neighborhood, but the same winter of their arrival a Methodist church was organized of which they were the first members. Their babe was the first buried in the graveyard of Nibben Chapel.

THOMAS H. WOODY.

Thomas Woody was one of the first residents of Tuscola. He accompanied his father, who was built in the town, which stood on the southeast corner of Block 24 just west of the present city limits. In company with Mr. Watlow and his wife, he founded the Methodist Church, the first religious society ever organized in Tuscola. The Woody family was of English descent. Mr. Woody's grandfather, John Woody, settled in Baltimore and became the publisher there of the Baltimore American, one of the oldest papers in America. The first name of the town was given by the first settler, Thomas Woody, in the month of the seventh of February, 1846. He was a blacksmith by trade. In 1846 he came to Parker county, Iowa, and in 1848 was married to Eleanor M. In 1827 he began flat-boating out of the Wapash to New Orleans, and followed this for nearly forty years. He removed to Illinois in 1857, first locating near Tuscola, and taking part in the founding of the town now stated above.

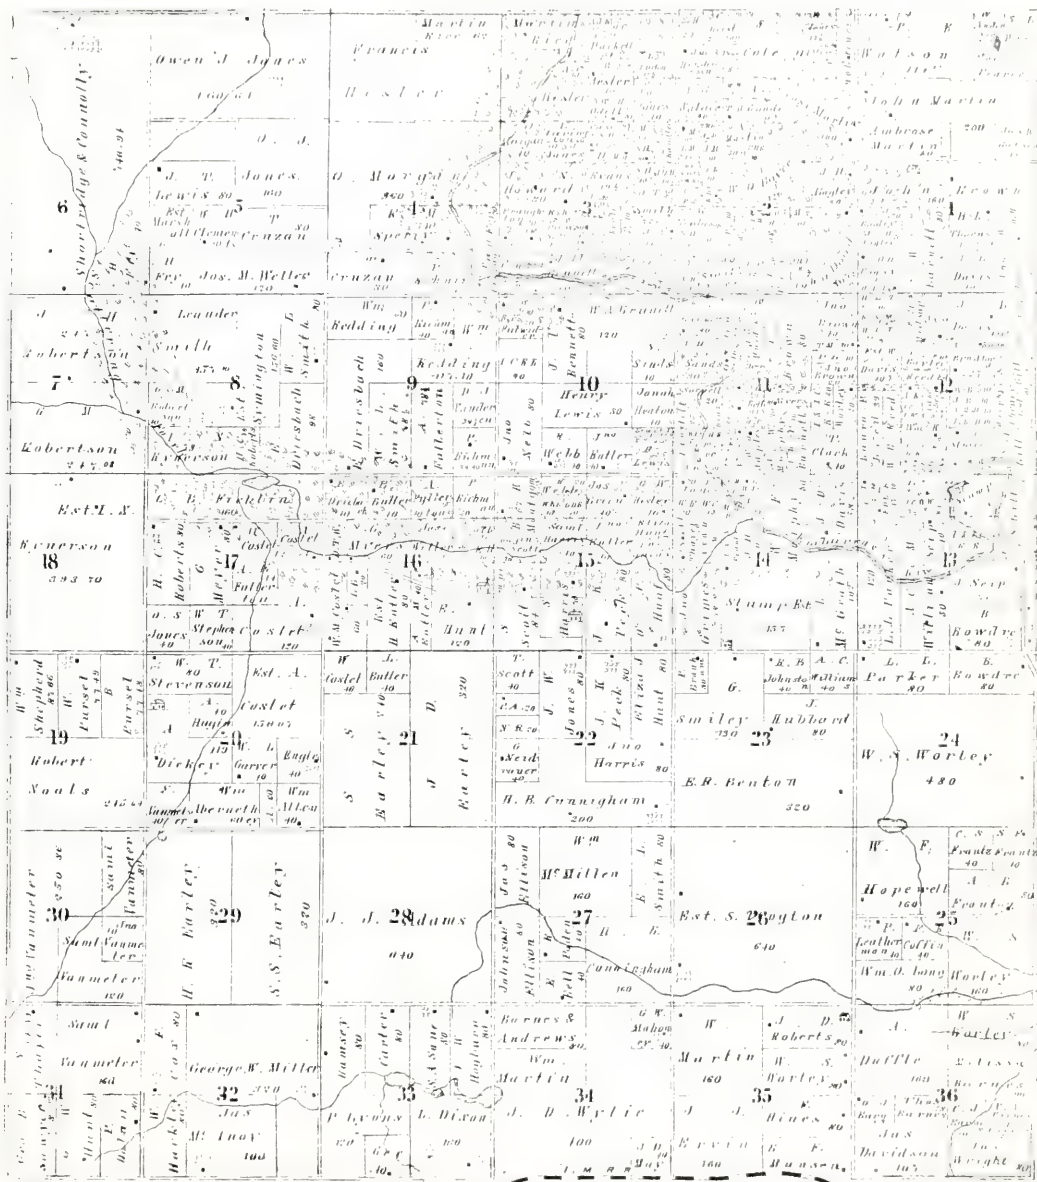

EDWARD L. SMITH, Esq.

EDWARD L. SMITH, Esq.,

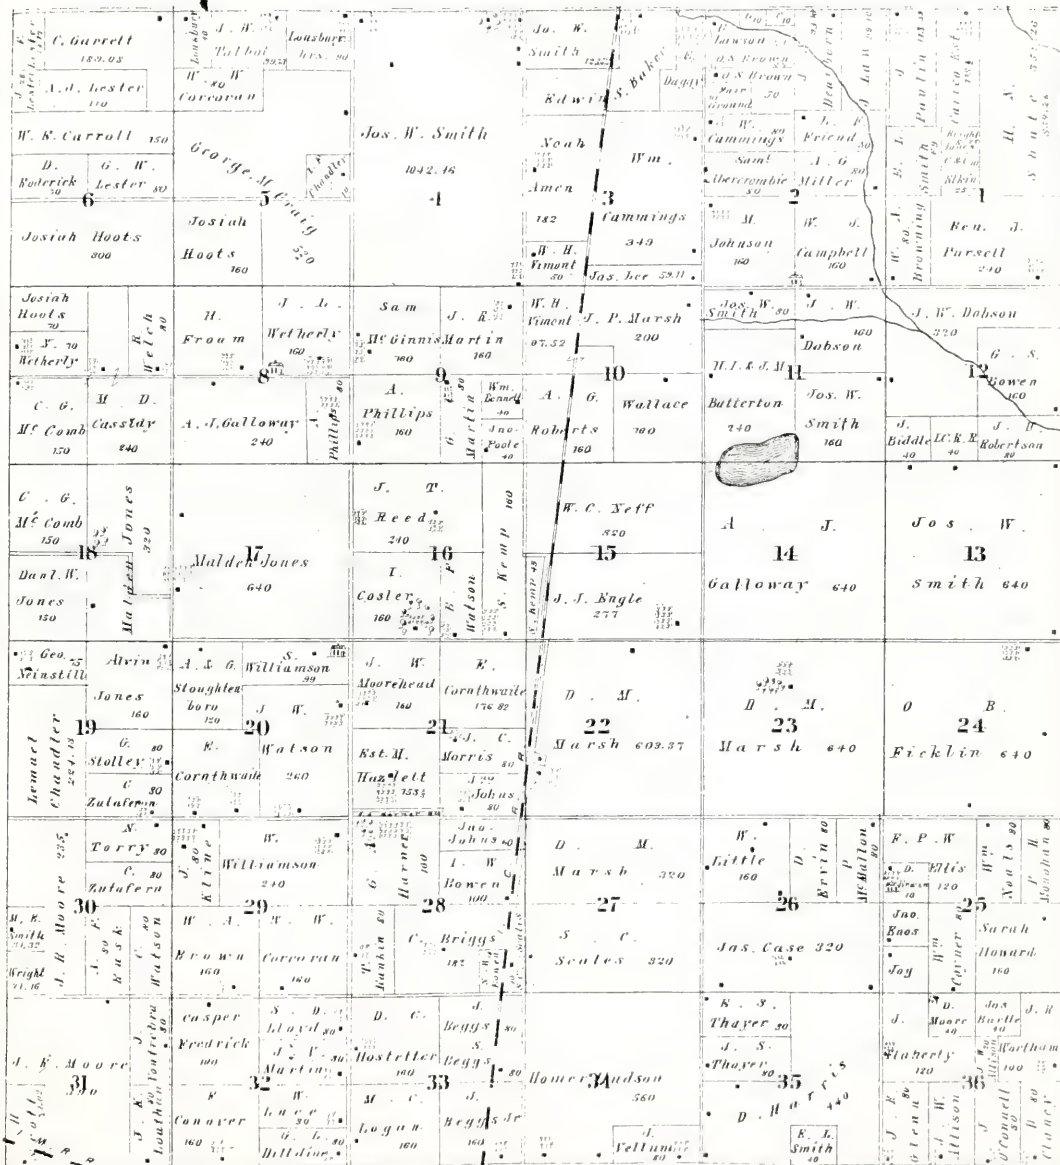

AMONG the members of the Ikon Island family bar, Mr. E. L. Smith deserves mention as having been long connected with the interests of the county, and as having been prominent in its history.

His grandfather and grandmother were natives of England, and on their emigration from that country settled in Rhode Island. Here his father, F. L. Smith, was born, who on reaching manhood married Susan Leitch. The wife was of Scotch-Irish descent, a native of Scotland. At the age of forty he left England and came to Ikon, New York, where he carried on an extensive trade in the fur and skin business. Mr. Smith's father moved from Ikon to Ikon, and to Indiana, where he is still living in the eightieth year of his age. He had five children, of whom the subject of this biography is the third.

He has three children, Mildred, Albert, and Jessie, all of whom are at home. Fred has father moved away from the county, and now resides in Ia. county, northwest Missouri. Mr. Hiltz was formerly a Whig, and is now a Republican in politics. He is one of the staunchest supporters of the Republic in party in his township. The second year after coming into a township organization, he was elected to the Board of Supervisors from Grant township, a position which he held for four years. For several years he has been connected with the Masonic fraternity. He is one of the solid and substantial men of the county, popular wherever known.

WILLIAM HOWE

The grandfather of William Howe was a native of Virginia, and emigrated to Kentucky when it was yet a wilderness. He formed a number of Boone's first colony, and perished in the dangers incident to frontier life in the dark and bloody days of the Indian wars. His son, Wm. Howe, Jr., was born in 1755, and married there Angeline Habbrecht, a native of Kentucky, and of English descent. In Kentucky, William Howe, the subject of our biography, was also born, in Bourbon county, of that state, on the twenty third of November, 1829.

At that time the excitement consequent upon the discovery of gold in California was spreading over the country. Mr. Howe, who was a young man, had seen adventures rise of men. His grandfather was one of the first pioneers to the gold fields, and he had been a partner in the great California gold mines. The spirit of adventure and brotherly love determined that he, too, should go to the gold fields. In March, 1849, in company with West and others, eleven in all, he started on his journey to the gold fields. They traveled by stagecoach, and then by river and high water. The party passed through Quincy, and across the state of Missouri, following ever nearer the mine, now traversed by the Hannibal and St. Louis river, and then by the Missouri river, and then by the Arkansas river, and at last to the gold fields. The northern route was then taken, through the South Fork of the Rocky mountains, north of Salt Lake; by the Utah or trail to the Sevier river, and then by the Sevier river to the Colorado river, and then by the Colorado river to the mine. The Sierra Nevada were crossed by the Carson trail. The party arrived at Wadsworth, August twenty-seventh, 1849, only finding in a month's time the gold fields. The men went to mining gold in this vicinity. Mr. Howe remained in the

Mr. Howe has six children, James M., John S., Perry N., Mary E., Charles R., and Effie A. He was raised a Democrat. He was in Kansas in 1857, at the time of the Border Ruffian troubles, and what he saw there of the spirit of slavery, induced him to join the Republican party, to which he has ever since been attached.

DAVID A. MEEKER, M. D.

The name of Dr. Meeker is familiarly known in Douglas County. He is a resident of Garfield township, and an old and successful practitioner of medicine. He is a family physician, English, French, and of patients of all nations. He is a soldier in the Revolutionary War, having served six years, throughout the entire struggle, in the patriot army. His father, Michael Meeker, was born in New Jersey, and at the age of sixteen, emigrated to Ohio, settling in Butler County, at that date in the year 1807. He was one of the pioneers in the section in which he lived. As his father had served in the Revolutionary War, so Michael Meeker, in the year 1862, was in the army. At the conclusion he returned to Butler County, Ohio, and resided near Marysville.

JACOB MOSHARREF

Mr. Moslander has had eight children, and seven are living. These are Peter John, Martha, Isaac, Rachel, Williana, and Charles R. All, excepting Rachel and Charles, are married. Peter married Naomi Quick, and lives in Atwood. John married Thea Dahl. He came and moved to Nebraska, where he is now a resident of Nebraska. Williana married Hansh Moore, and is now at Lincoln. Charles has a grocery and hardware store at Atwood.

Mr. Moslander was formerly a member of the Democratic party, but united with the Republican party some time after its formation, voting for Lincoln at the first election. He is a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, and of the Christian Church, with which his wife is also connected. Mr. Moslander made his start in life from small beginnings. CAMARGO TOWNSHIP

MARTIN RICE

Among the prominent citizens of Douglas county and those most closely identified with its interests and growth, is Martin Rice, a resident of Canaan township. He has been a resident of Illinois since 1849, and of what is now Douglas county since 1853. Since the latter date he has resided at his present home near Canaan.

This was a residence in the city of Cambridge, but with one exception, nothing was lost, and he could make use of all the time and place, and he had

JOHN D. MURDOCH

THE family from which Judge Muddock is descended is of Scotch-Irish origin. His grandfather emigrated to the north of Ireland to America at an early date prior to the Revolutionary war, a struggle in which he took an active part. As far as known he was the first representative of the family in the New World, settling in Monmouth County, New Jersey.

Here John Murdock, the father of the subject of our story, was born in the year 1785. He followed the occupation of his father, that of a farmer. Up about the age of twenty-one, he emigrated to Butler County, Ohio. This early in the present century, and he was among the earliest settlers of the place. Soon after his emigration from Ohio, he married Rebecca Little, who also descended from an old Jersey family. She was the mother of John Murdock, who was born on the 15th of June, 1816. Three years afterwards he was drowned. She was returning in a wagon to her home from Cincinnati. The sad incident transpired in fording a swift stream, swollen by recent rains.

After a period of about six years in Wayne County, his father, in the fall of 1827, emigrated to Tennessee County, Indiana, then a wild and unsettled region of country. John D. was eleven years of age at the time of this removal, and he was with his father and mother, who were accompanied by a brother, John, who was then about five years of age. The family was engaged to labor on his father's farm. The life of the family was a time of pain and sorrowing the difficulties of the new settlement, in meeting the exigencies and troubles that characterized an unimproved and sparsely settled country. The father was a man of great energy and industry, who could not be trifled with by his own. For the March, following his thirty-ninth birth day, was among the many losses of matrimony to Miss Martha Morgan, whose estate was among the early settlers of Tennessee. Her father moved to Tennessee at this time, and resided in Tennessee County. Her father's death occurred in the month of March, 1831, and she was then about five years of age. The children were as follows: Polly, Sally, Mabel, Peter, Sam, Martha, Joseph, David, Nancy, Van Zandt, and Wilson.

REV. JONATHAN COOLIDGE

He became connected with the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, in 1871, at the age of thirty. Some years later, he joined some others for his religious education at the Cumberland College, in Lebanon, Tenn. After a long struggle and much thought he eventually became a candidate for the ministry, in September, 1880. In 1882 he was the pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, in Lebanon, Tenn. During the year the work was partly on account of the deficiency in the clergy it was unusual. But, for personal books, and inadequate amount of preparation for the work, he was not able to do much. He was, however, very busy himself for the work to which the Lord has called him. In September, 1883, he was called to the pastorate of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, in Lexington, Mo. In Indiana, preaching to different segregated churches, and visiting himself in missionary work. He had charge for a season of a church in Mongu, Africa, and he has been in the Congo River, Africa, and through the work he attended to the affairs of the territory.

He showed the same zeal in the work of the ministry in Illinois as he manifested here in Indiana. He began preaching directly after his graduation from the University of Chicago, and was assigned to the First Reformed Presbyterian Church. For a short time services were held in Mr. Cooley's house. A building for school and church purposes was erected by the people in the summer of 1869. This is used still to-day, when the members of all faiths are gathered for the celebration of the American Independence. This was dedicated in November, 1869.

Mr. Cooley represented the pastor of the church, from its organization, in the various meetings of the association and during his term, he acted as moderator. He was elected to the office of moderator in 1871, and relieved from his office. His wife died on the 10th of May, 1872. Cyrus P. In the twenty-fourth year of his age he married Louise Younger, a native of the neighboring County of Gallatin. The date of the marriage was the first of March, 1841, and Mr. Briggs was then only in his twentieth year. The first season Mr. Briggs engaged in huckle-berrying, but he did not attract attention until the following year, when he was twenty-one years of age. He had the good fortune to find a patch of seven acres in Kentucky. Mr. Briggs removed with his family to Indiana. Three children had then been born. He settled in Indiana about twenty miles above Terre Haute, two miles east of the state line between Indiana and Illinois. He lived here four years, and then removed to Dubois, Kentucky, where he lived about five years. He was then twenty-one years of age, and in the neighborhood of which he lived till the day of his death.

W. L. WATSON.

W. L. was the eldest son and second child of the family. His father came to Douglas county, then Cole, in 1849, and located first on Birchfork Creek, about distance west of Newman. After a residence here of a year or two, he moved to the present location, where he remained until 1854, when he was 14 years of age. At that time, when he was 15 years of age, he was taken ill with cholera, which occurred in October, 1854. His wife survived him till April, 1866. They had one child, Henry. W. L. was married four and one-half years after he had his father's death, to Margaret, daughter of John and Mary Ann Smith, of the township of Union, Douglas county, near the mouth of the Big Horn river. CHARLES M. CULBERTSON

Mr. Culbertson now has the best of times. During his clerkship he had exhibited unusual qualifications of a high order, and his services have been appreciated by his employers. His partnership with Daniel A. Tracy to carry on a general merchandise and pork-packing business in Chicago, has been successful. The partnership was carried on at New York and other places, but at Chicago. The Chicago location was practically caused by the diversion of trade from the Walworth location to Chicago. The business of the partnership is one of the best of the country, trade naturally is caused by the river, but the main impetus of national trade is caused by railway carriers. Mr. Culbertson remembers that in 1860, when the partnership was first formed, the business was not so early as this. During the last sixteen years of the partnership he has been in the business, and has been successful in his career. He has seen the partnership grow from a small business to a large one, and he has seen the partnership grow from a small business to a large one. He has seen the partnership grow from a small business to a large one, and he has seen the partnership grow from a small business to a large one.

GEORGE D. SOUTL.

ISAAC DAVIDSON was born in Fairfield county, Ohio, January 1, 1914. He was the youngest child of A. Edgar Davidson and his wife, Margaret, who was nee McCauley. All the schooling he received was at home, beginning his education at thirteen, and going to school at intervals to his sisters. January 12, 1936, he married Ann Jones. He afterward moved to Illinois, arriving in 1937, and in 1938 he and his wife moved to the town where he now resides, near the town of Janel. He subsequently bought 200 acres in the southwest part of Janel township. In 1934 he purchased the property on which he now resides. His wife died in 1932.

January 5, 1936, he married Mrs. J. W. Hunter, whose maiden name was Mrs. J. W. Hunter, eight by his first wife, and three by his second. Three of those by his first wife are living, and two by the second. Mr. Davidson was formerly a Whig, and has since been a Republican. In the late civil war both of his sons served in the army. Mr. Davidson is a member of the Janel Grange, No. 100, and the Janel Christian church.

JOSEPH HEMINGWAY, the father of the subject of this brief sketch, married Miss Mary Austin, and was the father of four children, whose names we give in their proper order: Sarah, William Ingham, Joseph (our subject), and Maria, who died in England. The remaining three are residents of the United States. Their father was a descendant of wealthy ancestors, and died Leicester, England.

Joseph Hemminger came from England, and settled in Chicago, Illinois in November 1850. There he was engaged in grafting for two years; he moved to Springfield, Illinois, where he followed the same business for 4 years, and then, in the spring of 1864, he moved with his family to Sangi county, Illinois, and settled on section four, township fourteen, range nine, where he now resides. He came to this country with nothing but a determination succeed, and his fine farm of over two hundred acres of well improved land is the result.

Mr. Hemmings was married to St. Margaret's choir, Leicester, England, Feb. 2, 1872, to Miss Harriet Herbert, daughter of William and Sarah Herbert, by whom he has had eight children, of which number but three are now living. We append the names of his children: William Hemmings, Sarah Jane, Louise, Wright, Sarah and William Hemmings.

Mr. Hemmings was at one time a very primitive Christian, and was both ignorant and superstitious. He is a very liberal man, and contributes liberally to what he considers charitable purposes—schools and churches; is a true, gentle citizen; unflinching even in his decisions, insisting at times in his more rapid speech, "ah, with generous hospitality, has won him the respect and kind wishes of the community."

He was born in Madison county, Virginia, on the 14th day of January, 1836. He was married in Rockingham county, Virginia, to Miss Mary Moyer, daughter of Philip and Margaret Burroughs Moyer, of the county of Maw, Va. He immigrated to Illinois in Nov., 1856, and settled in a new town then in the country, but is now Douglas. He now resides on section nine, town one, range two, where he has a large interest in the copper and coal fields.

Mr. and Mrs. Brundage have been happily married for almost 40 years and have five children, four of whom are living, for a total of 12 grandchildren. Three of their children are members of the same club.

Mr. Brundage came to this country in 1894 and made a fortune as a banker, labor and future, progressed his company into a large one, and is now in the ranks of the best farmers in the country and has now, by hard, logical, common-sense, a competent staff of men, he is now in a situation that precludes all possibility of a return to his old home in Norway.

He is presently in a well made to do a part of the reputation of the true Virginian gentleman, whose long years of development and ability are characteristic of the Old Dominion.

MR. GEORGE BARNES, the father of Dr. John C. Barnes, was born in July 1806, at New York, on the 27th day of July, 1806, and still resides in his native city. He was married about the year 1830 to Miss Rebecca Felt, daughter of Jacob and Susanna Felt, of New York. Their children, in order of birth, are, William, John C., George, and Albert. John C. Barnes was born in Jefferson County, Indiana, and his early life was spent on his father's farm. At a local schoolhouse in the vicinity he received his early education, and so well did he apply himself to his studies that on entering Scott's Commercial College at Indianapolis, he soon acquired first-class business education, to which his diploma attests. He subsequently attended one session at the Hanover Academy, and two sessions at the College

At leaving college he was clerk in the Post Office in Hanover, four years where Le won the kindest regards of an appreciative public. Mr. Barker married Mrs. Elizabeth Combs, born Elizabeth Barker, of Clark County, New Hampshire, daughter of Daniel and Nancy (Hosette) Fowler. Their family consists of three sons; the oldest, Elmer B., born May 25th, 1891; one in Calmer (twins), born February 15th, 1895. They are three genial and intelligent boys.

Dr. Barnes, after studying medicine three years, attended Medical Lectures at Cincinnati, Ohio, in the fall of 1865 and spring of 1866, after which he moved to Douglas County, Illinois, and settled on section fourteen, toward a frontier range nine, where he still resides. He has shown and improved the substantial farmers of Douglas County. He has bought and improved two hundred and forty acres of the richest land in the county. He has been a diligent collector of liberal thinkers, known to University, to which faculty he addressed. He has never been a rag-d supporter of any particular political party, but has generally sided with the Democracy when men of sterling integrity and high character have been in the field. His life has been devoted to the most charitable purposes, schools and churches, has always been a characteristic trait of his life, coupled with a deferential record for the opinion of his neighbors.

Mr. HARRIS: I am sure that the Government will be able to find a way to make the proposed bill effective. It is in order, therefore, to take up the amendment to the proposed bill.

He was one of the few of the white members who were male members of the group. He was the first person to

THE rectangular system of surveying adopted by the United States in subdividing the public lands, in its present state of perfection, is the simplest and most beautiful that could be devised.

A State when subdivided has the regularity and symmetry of a well laid out city on a grand scale; the townships corresponding to the blocks, and the sections and subdivisions to the lots. The sections and townships are almost uniformly one and six miles square, bounded by lines conforming to the cardinal points.

The lines constituting the base of the Public Survey, with regard to Douglas County especially are three. A principal meridian running North and South through the centre of the State, which is named the third principal meridian. For instance, one of their corners in this county, and to be 5222 links from a certain other corner, and in the original land-writing of the Deputy Surveyor, is found by a total measurement to be between the original corners, both known to be only 154 links apart. This was a sheer mistake, and might have

However, from the North-east corner of the sect n. 4. 14. 8, to the North-east corner of the township, between original corners, the distance being recorded as three miles, even lacks 18 rods of the distance. This error is probably proven to be an error by a corresponding shortage five

The long streets in North river townships lie clear through the prairie country, and were not intentionally made so, the townships merely having laid out the extra land in the form of a standard or common lot, and then subdivided it into lots and conveyed it. Many settlements between the river and state line, however, are found, and it becomes the surveyor who is engaged in doing this work to almost always the record showing what the original owner or owners said he did, and endeavor to ascertain as near as possible what he actually did in the end, and recognize that work to the best of his ability.

The original corners are nearly all gone. No corner established in the prairie can now be identified by its appearance. Legend here evidence is about the only resort for proof of an original mound, and this evidence will be lost to the people memorably after the present generation of surveyors and old settlers shall have passed away.

In view of this fact, some plan, or law, should be devised to fix, forever, the notes and pounds as established by the proper officers, subject only to the revision of the Courts within a stated period, after the work is done, as a check upon bad work. This would go far towards securing permanency, which article is again bound to be as much an effort due as any one measure.

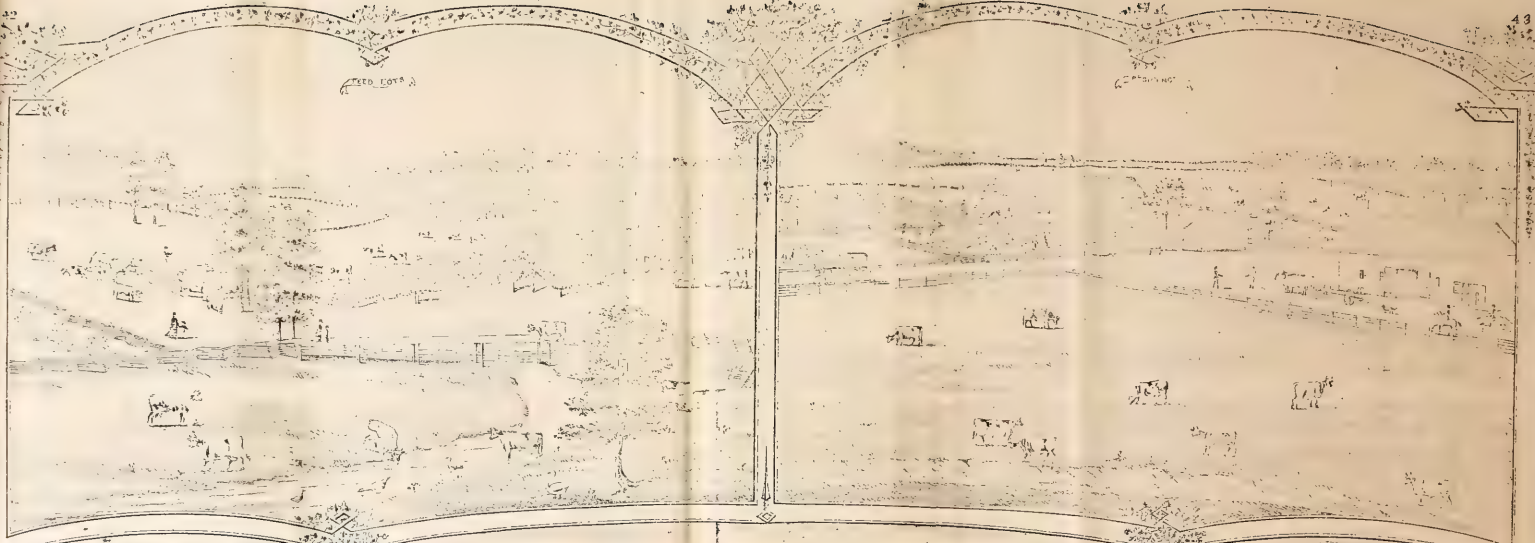

And a similar one in Indiana, upon which some four species depend. Also a principle I have noticed where the State runs south of Douglas county. We count, therefore, North from this base line, and East from the principal meridian by township. Thus Indiana is situated in Township Six North, of the principal base line, and Range Six, East of the principal meridian, and is divided into thirty six townships, and six ranges. I should like to have the same done for Oregon, and know the location of any other city, in the State that depends for its description upon the same base and meridian, or division, would be quite successful, I believe.

As it is well known that lines at a given distance apart, and both smaller North, will converge or approach each other—called the convergence of Meridians—and the townships along it have become narrower as North is approached by running what is called a convergence line, or convergence, parallel with the line run by the original survey line in the county. Here the work was, as it were, done backwards—the convergence measurements on East and West, and thence the convergence line run on North. The convergence line is a line of equal area of the township on this line is popularly called a "dog". Surveyors call the dog,—all the way to the right or left of corners at the end of the line in township in Range 4 West, of Douglas County, count from the 2d meridian in Indiana. It appears that a system of surveys depicting the 2d meridian had been in Illinois was extended Eastward and

The extremely narrow range called Range 11 East in Douglas County, been suggested for with any reliability. One survivor of the " " and townships was probably not aware of the proximity of the other occurrence of ad. 11 only have been included in Range 11 West, which, however, just looks in townships 14 and 15 the wall, of this narrow range and separate sections.

Tombidi 16, was surveyed in April, 1821, by John Messinger; W. L. May in May, 1821; and 17, 8, and 14, were surveyed by F. Hancett, who subdivided 15, 9, into sections in June, 1821. I find cause for the survey or who makes the town's divisions to subdivide only when for the reason that one may be a clerk upon the world; other, and it is all known that in many cases, being undertaken not only some of his machine more "surveyed in the text."

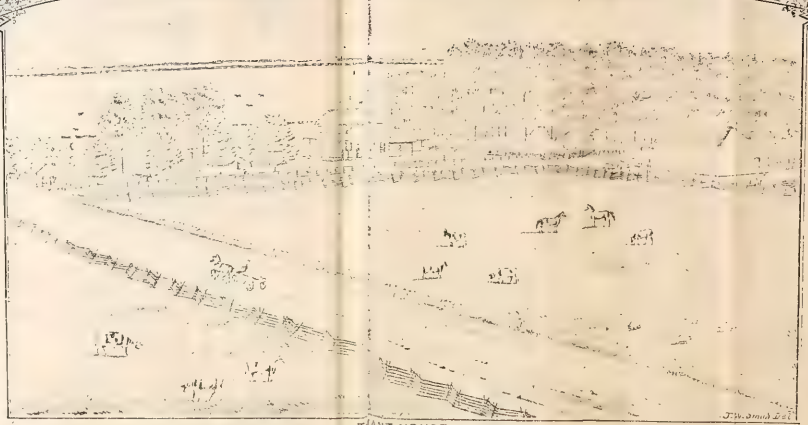

The very great discrepancies found between their measurements ground and their record of them support this view, though they may run a random line here and there north through the township and section corners. There has been found, but, perhaps, no County Surveyor to better work with them.
